Address of Thanks for His Majesty's Speech from the Throne; and to assure His Majesty, that the House will proceed without Delay, to consider of the Propriety of enabling His Majesty to avail Himself, to a further Extent, of the Voluntary Services of the Militia, at a Moment when the House is satisfied an Increase of our active Force Abroad, may be productive of the most important and beneficial Consequences; that the House has seen the happy Effects of the Measure adopted on this Subject in the last Session; and they reflect with Pride, that the Forces which His Majesty was thereby enabled to employ, had already displayed in the Face of the Enemy, a Courage, Discipline, and Steadiness, worthy the Character of British Soldiers. That it was with the utmost Satisfaction they had observed the rapid Improvement of our Situation and Prospects, which, under the Blessing of Providence, had taken place in the short Interval since the last Session; and they cordially congratulate His Majesty on the continued Display of the Abilities and Valour of the Commanders and Troops of the Combined Imperial Armies, and on the Deliverance of Italy, by the Result of a Campaign, equal in Splendour and Success, to any of the most brilliant recorded in History. And they warmly participate with His Majesty, in the Satisfaction which must be excited in every British Heart, by seeing His Fleets and Armies successfully employed to the Assistance of His Allies, to the Support of our just Cause, and to the Advancement of the most important Interests of the British Empire. Among the happy Effects of those Exertions, they rejoice to observe the Restoration of the Kingdom of Naples to the Dominion of its lawful Sovereign, and the Renewal of His Majesty's former Connections with that Power. That they had witnessed with Joy and Exultation, the glorious Exploits which had rendered the French Expedition to Egypt, productive of fresh Calamity and Disgrace to our Enemies, and which had frustrated their ultimate Views against our Eastern Possessions; and they could not forbear to express their just sense of the Courage of Turkish, and their warmest Admiration of the Skill and Heroism of a British Officer, by whose Efforts the desperate Attempt of the Enemy was defeated. That they join with His Majesty in affording the highest praise to the Vigilance, Decision, and Wisdom of the Governor General in Council in India, and to the tried Abilities and Valour of the Commanders, Officers, and Troops, employed under his Direction. They trust that the Effort which His Majesty is making for the Deliverance of the United Provinces, will prove successful; and that they have already abundant Reason to rejoice in the first Success of the British Arms, which has rescued from the Possession of the Enemy the principal Port and Naval Arsenal of the Dutch Republic; and that the Fleet, which was destined to co-operate in the Invasion of these Islands, might shortly partake of the Glory of restoring the Religion, Liberty, and Independence of these Provinces. That they cordially join in the Sentiments so justly due to the Conduct of His Majesty's Ally the Emperor of Russia, to whose Magnanimity and Wisdom, they were in a great Degree indebted for the Success of our own Efforts, as well as for the favourable Change in the general Situation of Affairs. They acknowledge His Majesty's Goodness, in having directed Copies to be laid before them of those Engagements which have consolidated and cemented a Connection so consonant to the permanent Interests of His Majesty's Empire. That it gave them Pleasure to learn that the ample Supplies which were granted to His Majesty in the last Session would so nearly provide for the Exigencies of the Public Service, as to enable His Majesty, without further Aid, to continue those Exertions to the Close of the Year, and that they would consider of providing for the Expence necessary for the early Part of the Year. That they return His Majesty their sincere Thanks for having, in pursuance of their Recommendation, judged it proper to communicate to His Two Houses of Parliament in Ireland, the Sentiments which they had expressed to Him respecting an incorporating Union with that Kingdom;—and that they continue to be satisfied that signal Benefit would be derived to both Countries from that important Measure: Resolved on; Committee appointed to prepare Address; to withdraw immediately; King's Speech referred; 24 Sep. Address reported and agreed to; to be presented by the whole House; 25. Address of Thanks for His Majesty's Speech from the Throne, and acknowledging, with Gratitude, the tender Concern which He at all Times shows for the Welfare of His Subjects, and particularly the poorer Classes, which induced Him to call the Parliament together at that Time: That they will adopt all such Measures as may appear to be best calculated to relieve the present severe Pressure, and prevent the Danger of its Recurrence: That for immediate Relief, their First Attention will be directed to encourage the Importation of Grain from Abroad, and to Economy and Frugality in the Consumption of Corn: The State of the Laws respecting the Commerce in various Articles of Provision, will be the Object of their serious Deliberation; and that it will be their earnest Desire to suppress any Abuses, by fraudulent Practices, in adding unfairly to the Prices of Articles, and to distinguish Practices of that Nature from the regular course of Trade: That they have seen, with Concern, the temporary Disturbances which have taken Place in some Parts of the Kingdom, and they join with His Majesty in applauding the voluntary Exertions made for the immediate Repression of the Outrages, and in Support of the Laws, &c.: That they will proceed with the utmost Readiness, in granting such Supplies as may be necessary, till a Period when the Parliament of the United Kingdoms may be conveniently assembled: They acknowledge His Majesty's Goodness in laying before them Copies of Communications between Him and the French Government; and that they shall see, with the utmost Satisfaction, the Adoption of all such Measures as may best tend to promote a speedy Restoration of Peace; but if it should fail, they would feel it their indispensable Duty to persevere in affording His Majesty effectual Support; and, under the Blessing of Providence, to conduct this important Contest to a prosperous Conclusion.
